

To the citizens of Anderson County; I am Robert Johnston, County Judge of Anderson County and I'm here to explain our Stay at Home order that went into effect this morning. The order is pretty simple and its intention is to stress the importance of staying separated from each other as often as possible. It doesn't keep you from traveling out of this county to go to work and you don't need travel documents at this time to do so. It doesn't keep you from going to the store if you need to, just don't carry the whole family with you. One person per family will help keep the numbers down in all of our stores. You are still free to take care of any essential business that you need to, just take care of it and go back home. The quicker we distance ourselves from each other during these trying times, the quicker we will get through it. I thank you in advance for following this order, and so does your neighbor.
